

DEWEY EXPRESSES HIMSELF.

Chancy M. Dewey, who is noted as an after-dinner speaker, on a recent occasion when surcharged with turkey and champagne, remarked that "the Senate has committed a crime against the United States, present and future, by neglecting to act on the silver purchase repeal bill, and inflicted a heavy blow on the National credit abroad."

The San Francisco Chronicle, commenting on those remarks, says:

Mr. Dewey is a glib talker, and multiplies words with a astonishing facility, but it would trouble him to furnish any evidence which would in the slightest degree support his allegation that the failure to repeal the silver purchase act has injured the National credit. Mr. Dewey knows that the United States can obtain money on as favorable terms to-day as it could three years or a year or six months ago, consequently the credit of the country has not been impaired.

Mr. Dewey is a possible candidate for the Republican nomination for President. Doubtless, like Mr. Cleveland, he is ignorant of public sentiment on the silver question in the South and West. He sees that four-fifths of the members of his party in Congress favor the repeal bill and he wants to be in accord with them.

Mr. Hill, also of New York, has the Presidential bee in his bonnet, and while opposed to Dewey, so far as party affiliations are concerned, he agrees with him on the repeal bill. These gentlemen seem to think that New York comprise all of the United States; that a Presidential candidate need care to placate and they vie with each other in their devotion to Wall street. Mr. Dewey does not hesitate to say that the refusal of the Senate to pass without discussion a bill to repeal an act which is party placed on the statute books and which every Republican State Convention east of the Rocky Mountains endorsed, is ruining the credit of the country, and Mr. Hill proclaims from the stump that the Sherman act is more pernicious and he outdoes the President, with whom, it is alleged, his relations were strained, for convening Congress in extra session to repeal it.

Mr. Dewey and Mr. Hill do not differ on the paramount issue of the day, yet, because one calls himself a Republican and the other proclaims himself a Democrat, each has a different following and both endeavor to make the people believe that the salvation of the country depends upon the success of his wing of the gold trust.

CHARGED WITH CROOKEDNESS.

Suit has been brought at Tiffin, Ohio, by Mrs. Anna Ball of Fostoria, one of the creditors of Charles Foster, ex-Governor of Ohio and ex-Secretary of the Treasury, to enjoin the transfer of certain property, real and personal. There are seventeen defendants named in the complaint, the principal one being the ex-Secretary.

It is alleged that the firm, of which Foster was the head, was insolvent two years ago and it is charged that Foster decided his honest and other real property at that time to his mother, who in turn decided to his wife, but the deeds were not recorded until the day of assignment, May 26, 1893. It is also charged that on March 31, 1893, Charles Foster and wife deeded $110,000 worth of property to W. L. Hackness, but the deeds were not recorded until after the assignment of the firm.

If these charges are founded on facts it will prove that Foster deliberately defrauded those who trusted him by deeding a large amount of property with the understanding that the deeds were not to be recorded until he made an assignment. Foster, like McKinley, was an advocate of free coinage at one time, but later on principle for office, when at the head of the Treasury Department he reduced the coinage of silver to a minimum and would not redeem any government obligations with standard dollars. Publicly he passed as an "home dollar" advocate, while privately, if what is alleged by Mrs. Anna Ball is true, he was conspiring to defraud his creditors.

THIEVES AT THE EXPOSITION.

Thieves have commenced operation at the World's Fair buildings in Chicago. They began on the mining building at the grounds and it is believed they are prepared to employ their time to the best advantage during the remaining days of the exposition. They plundered the Idaho exhibit and got away with $8,000 worth of bullion, gold specimens, opals and rubies. Some of the rubies were cut for setting and quite valuable.

The secret service men are of the opinion that there is a regular organized gang of thieves on the grounds and that it is mainly composed of employees. This may be a libel on the men who work in the grounds, but the detectives must blame somebody lest suspicion might be directed toward themselves.

Twenty thousand copies of Congressman Newland's speech against the repeal bill in the House of Representatives have been sent to the Old Dominion to make votes for the Populists. The election machinery in the State is controlled by the old parties; two Democrats and one Republican, the latter generally an illiterate Negro, comprise the election board in each precinct, and the benefit of silver literature may be counteracted in counting the votes.

SILVER IN THE SENATE.

A Probability of Amending the Repeal Bill—Fugh, Stewart and Jones Speak Against Repeal.

WASHINGTON, October 25.—There was a general air of relief in the Senate that the long struggle was over, which extended to the silver men themselves. Some doubts were expressed as to whether a vote can be reached on the bill as soon as was expected immediately after the collapse of filibuster, as it is found that more amendments, of which notice has not yet been given, will actually be introduced than was expected. Some of these will doubtless give rise to considerable debate. The silver men count on getting more votes for some of these amendments than on the bill itself.

The Faulkner, Squire and Quay amendments met with the most favor. The 20 to 1 and 16 to 1 coinage amendments, it is expected, will catch a number of votes which will finally be cast in favor of repeal, especially the 16 to 1 ratio, where the Populists are concerned.

There is some talk to the effect that the Republican repealers will unite with the silver men on some one of the amendments and put it through, but in such a case it is likely to lose as many anti-repeal Democrats as it will gain Republicans.

As soon as the session opened Feffer offered a resolution directing the Committee on Judiciary to investigate the report whether the repeal part of the act of February 28, 1876, by the passage of the act of July 14, 1890, affected the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, or whether the law was still in force. Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

Sherman reported the joint resolution thanking the nations of the world for their co-operation in the World's Fair, and asking immediate consideration.

Hear thought the method proposed was not suitable. The President of the United States should make courteous acknowledgment to each Government by name.

Cullom agreed with Hear. Sherman thought the resolution came from the Secretary of State and, he was informed, desired its passage.

Hear offered an amendment in accordance with his idea. The amendment was agreed to and the resolution as amended was passed. The repeal bill was taken up and Pugh spoke against it. Referring to the recent compromise, Pugh said the Democratic Senators had united in a spirit of compromise and concession, and selected an equal number of Senators from those friendly to unconditional repeal and those opposed to it, and with the full knowledge of President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle that such an effort was being made to bring the Democrats together upon some ground that could be enacted into a law. They accomplished that laudable undertaking so far as to agree upon a compromise that secured the signatures of every Democratic Senator but six. In fact it was not considered doubtful that forty-three Democratic Senators would have sanctioned the compromise had not the President interposed objections and demanded unconditional repeal at all hazards.

Pugh was not satisfied that all effort at compromise failed solely on account of Cleveland and his Secretary of the Treasury. He was satisfied that he could not get a sufficient number of Senators to join him in filibustering practices and he was forced to record his vote against this diabolical measure and appeal to the people to organize their forces for the great battle of the future. Pugh said he was willing, if he had sufficient support, to resort to any and all means to defeat the pending bill. He was proud to be called a filibuster in defeating a conspiracy equal in the ruinous consequences of its success to war, pestilence and famine. He would rather be called a filibuster by the conspirators and lickspittles of gold kings than be called a traitor or faithless representative by the State and people who honored him with their trust and confidence. As for him, he would do his duty as a Senator as he understood it, and leave the consequences to God and his country.

Stewart then resumed his speech. He spoke of the gold combination as having agents at the capital to dictate legislation, and as having elected a President determined to carry out their policy. The President was now in the saddle and Congress was helpless. The time might come when haughty tyrants would meet a rebuke from the people.

When Stewart had talked an hour or so he yielded the floor to his colleague,

Jones, saying he would finish his remarks at another time. Jones discussed at length the relations of the workingmen to the money system.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, October 25.—Wilson of Washington has introduced a bill appropriating $375,000 for two revenue cutters for the Pacific Coast.

Robinson of Pennsylvania has introduced a bill to abolish the office of Naval Officer at all ports of entry.

THROWS UP THE SPONGE.

The Veteran Bland Loses all Hope.

WASHINGTON, October 25.—The last doubt as to what might be done in the Senate on the repeal bill seemed to be removed this morning when Bland, the great free-silver champion of the House, gave up all hope. He had just returned from the Senate, where he had been conferring with the silver leaders. He said to an Associated Press reporter that he had no idea that any further effort would be made to prevent a vote on the Voorhees bill in the Senate; that speeches will be made, and when completed a vote will come.

He was asked what would be done when the bill came over to the House.

"I am, of course, opposed to that bill and to all compromises that do not recognize silver as money. The bill ought to be referred to the Coinage Committee, but being a House bill, it can be taken from the Speaker's table and the Senate amendments concurred in without reference to the committee."

Bland was asked if the silver men would force the repealers to have a quorum.

"Oh, yes," he replied, "they will have to have their quorum to pass the bill."

A GLOOMY OUTLOOK.

Ex-Congressman Bartine on the Situation.

WASHINGTON, October 25.—Ex-Congressman Bartine of Nevada, who has been in Washington during the entire silver fight, to a certain extent as representative of the interests of the West, speaking of the situation to-night, said there was no hope for silver.

"I expect to see silver go to 40 cents an ounce. There is only one thing to prevent it, and it is the shutting down of all the big silver mines, which will be the case in Nevada. At the same time, I think unconditional repeal much better than the compromise proposed, because with that we would have little opportunity to go before the people with any hope of winning a silver victory. Now we may make such strides toward it in the next election that even as unfavorable an Executive as President Cleveland is, will be compelled to do something for silver."

Telegraphic Notes.

The President is said to be much gratified at the prospect of passing the repeal bill.

James Stone has confessed that he alone butchered the Walton family of six persons at Washington, Indiana.

The old home of Stephen A. Douglas at Washington has been purchased for Monsignor Sattoli, the Pope's Legate. Governor Hughes of Arizona has arranged for the establishment of a large colony of European farmers and mechanics in the Territory.

Over 20,000,000 persons have paid for admission to the World's Fair and the number is expected to exceed over 22,000,000 before the fair closes.

Another disaster on the Grand Trunk road was averted by the train men on the east-bound passenger remaining over time at a station to eat lunch.

The funeral of Lord Vivian, the British Ambassador, took place in the English Church at Rome. The services were conducted with great pomp, ten Ambassadors acting as pall bearers. Brosius of Pennsylvania, by request, introduced in the House a bill "to establish gold currency and silver currency on a basis of interchangeable value." It is one of the many schemes proposed to settle the financial question.

"German Syrup"

Here is an incident from the South—Mississippi, written in April, 1890, just after the Grippe had visited that country. "I am a farmer, one of those who have to rise early and work late. At the beginning of last winter I was on a trip to the City of Vicksburg, Miss., where I got well drenched in a shower of rain. I went home and was soon after seized with a dry, hacking cough. This grew worse every day, until I had to seek relief. I consulted Dr. Dixon who has since died, and he told me to get a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. Meantime my cough grew worse and worse, and then the Grippe came along and I caught that very severely. My condition then compelled me to do something. I got two bottles of German Syrup. I began using them, and before taking much of the second bottle, I was entirely clear of the cough that had hung to me so long, the Grippe, and all its bad effects. I felt tip-top and have felt that way ever since."

STEERS PLACING FELLOW CITY LEADER.

On Tuesday night a drove of bullocks numbering about 140 were being driven from the Canadian shed to the Woodside lairage at Birkenhead, a singular accident happened. On the river side of the Alfred dock there is a narrow undulating bridge, recently placed there by the Mersey docks and harbor board for the purpose of conveniently transferring cattle to the lairages. The bridge will allow two bullocks to pass over abreast, but yesterday the beasts became jammed and one of them leaped into the Alfred dock and was immediately followed by 84 others.

The scene in the water was most extraordinary; but, strange to recount, one of the bullocks swam to the steps and walked out in the most intelligent fashion and was followed by 11 others. The thirteenth, however, slipped back into the water, where the remaining 21 were swimming about for a considerable time. Ultimately a number of men put off in boats, and tying ropes around the beasts drew them in to the wall, and thus supported them until a crane was brought into use and the entire herd rescued. Little the worse for their strange immersion. A period of three hours elapsed before the work of recovery was completed, and during this time the liveliest excitement was apparent among the numerous spectators.—Westminster Gazette.

Russian Fleet For the Mediterranean.

It is stated that the Russian permanent squadron for the Mediterranean shortly to be constituted will consist of the vessels which recently visited America and are now on their way home under the command of Admiral Kasnakoff. They are the Emperor Nicholas I, ironclad battleship, 8,500 tons, 570 men; the Admiral Nakhimoff, armored cruiser, 7,800 tons, 500 men; the Dimitri Donskoi, armored cruiser, 7,000 tons, 350 men, and the Rynda, a steel protected cruiser, 3,000 tons, 320 men.

Of these four vessels each one is making for a different port—Lisbon, Gibraltar, the Azores and Cadiz respectively. It is not yet known where they will assemble. The latest advice from Russia, however, states that they will go to London in order to repay the celebrated Cronstadt visit of two years ago. On the fleet being definitely constituted it will be placed under the command of Admiral Avellan, who is already organizing his staff, but who will in all probability not remain in command for more than a year. Admiral Kasnakoff will be placed in an important post at Cronstadt.—Paris Correspondent.

The Electric Fan Waltzes.

A diminutive electric fan in the office of the department of public works was located on a window sill, where its noise disturbed the clerks, and they placed it upon a metal heater. The instant the current was turned on the electricity performed a clog dance and waltzed the fan all over the heater. All the time the blue fluid flashed out in two foot lengths, and the burning and whirling of the swift revolving wheel nearly caused a stampede in the office. But relief came at last when the machine with a mighty effort, as if to get away from the heater, danced off the side of it and fell with a bump on the floor, bringing the circus to a close.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

In Pleasant Sandwich.

A traveler journeying down Cape Cod way the other day was surprised to find around Sandwich more beautiful trees of great growth and more garden flowers of various colors than he had ever seen in any other village in New England. And in the western part of the town he found an artificial pond bordered with concrete, which contained several varieties of water lilies of rare sorts—lilies from Australia, Zanzibar and the Cape of Good Hope, with papyrus, wild rice, hyacinths, arrowhead and a variety of lotus and pink, white and yellow lilies from widely separated regions interspersed.—New York Times.

Cheers Chased the Tons.

When General Lew Wallace was called upon to speak at the reunion of his old regiment, the Eleventh Indiana, at the recent Grand Army encampment at Indianapolis, his feelings got the better of him, and he broke down in tears. There were about a hundred of the boys there, and half of them were crying too. After awhile one fellow with horse sense proposed three cheers for the old man, and they were given in such a way as to drive the lachrymose atmosphere, after which the old man gave them a talk that was worth listening to.—Joe Howard.

To Discourage Profanity.

Marblehead people have noticed with pain lately that swearing seems to be remarkably prevalent in that picturesque old Massachusetts town, and especially so after the return of sailors from an unsuccessful cruise. This being the case it has been deemed best to organize an anti-swearing league, and a local newspaper announces that it will offer in the public schools a prize for the best essay on "What are the best methods to discourage profane swearing?"

Justice In Midair.

Edward M. Greene of San Francisco has designed a novelty for the midwinter fair to be held in that city which he hopes will rival the Eiffel tower and the Ferris wheel. It is a colossal statue of Justice, 150 feet high, supporting an immense pair of scales, the extremities of which are cars holding 50 people each. The beam is a truss 300 feet long, oscillating like a walking beam, thus lifting the cars to a height of 350 feet.

Email Phillips, the Chicago architect who claims to have secured a lot of staff in the construction of the exhibit building, wants the principal ones made into picturesque ruins, covered with ivy, and left as a legacy to posterity.

Bishop Whittle of Virginia, one of the oldest prelates in the Protestant Episcopal church in this country, is threatened with total blindness at Clifton Springs in that state.

AWAITING VIRCHOW'S DECISION.

Among the treasure trove which has come to light lately as the result of Hellenic excavation, none has been more enthusiastically heralded than that which was discovered the other day at Decleia—namely, the cranium of Sophocles. Already it has been sought to throw a damper on the delight of the discoverer by suggesting doubts as to its authenticity—and certainly the Greek record as to such "evidence from antiquity," whether it be a coin or a manuscript, a tomb or a cranium, is not invariably unimpaired as to absolute truth from the most stringent proof of bona fides.

Controversy round this latest prize of archaeology has waxed so warm indeed that an arbiter has had to be constituted—an arbiter who to classify it having added the scarcely less appropriate qualifications of anatomical and paleontological knowledge. Professor Virchow of Berlin is the authority to whom the contending camps have consented to appeal, and by his judgment, re-enforced as it will doubtless be by that of the archaeologists and men of science with whom Germany abounds, the question will, provisionally at least, be settled.

We await Professor Virchow's decision with unusual interest and on grounds which every student of the connection between genius and organization will readily appreciate.—London Lancet.

Assault on a Princess.

Sarejbi, a princess of India, came to the World's fair from Bombay, her home, with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ballantine. Mr. Ballantine is American, and the princess is a Hindu. The princess, who is a school for native children in Bombay, a Ballantine relative, an incident that happened to her in a cable car the other day. As she took a seat in the car a fat woman adorned with cheap jewelry stepped down in the seat next to her. Turning to her companion, a little man, the large woman sneeringly exclaimed in tones loud enough to be heard all around:

"I suppose I'll have to sit next to this thing."

The princess quietly replied:

"Don't be alarmed, madam; I am no savage and will not hurt you."

Whereupon the fat woman said to the little man:

"My goodness, she can talk English. Who would ever have thought it?"

"The manner in which the people here gaze at a person is very embarrassing. I don't like it," continued the princess. "Why should they be startled to hear me speak the English language? It is the first language my mother taught me, and I am better acquainted with it than with any other."—Chicago Tribune
